ARCHIVES OF MARYLAND

Edited by BERNARD C. STEINER AND J. HALL PLEASANTS, M. D.

Published by authority of the State

VOLUME XLV (State Council Series, Volume 6)

JOURNAL AND CORRESPONDENCE OF THE STATE COUNCIL, 1780-1781.

This volume of the Archives is now ready for distribution. The attention of members of the Society who do not now receive the Archives is called to the liberal provision made by the Legislature, which permits the Society to furnish to its own members copies of the volumes, as they are published from year to year, at the mere cost of paper, presswork, and binding. This cost is at present fixed at one dollar, at which price members of the Society may obtain one copy of each volume published. For additional copies, a price of three dollars is charged.

The forty-fifth volume of the Archives of Maryand is the sixth volume in the sub-series of state documents relating to the period of the Revolutionary War. The Council Proceedings were copied from Liber C. B. No. 24, and the correspondence of the Council from Liber No. 78; both of these are contemporary copies of which the original rough minutes and drafts are in the keeping of the Maryland Historical Society. The letters and reports to the Council are from two sources in the possession of the Society; namely, the three series of bound volumes of manuscripts known familiarly as the Black, Brown and Red Books from the color of their bindings; and a mass of bundles of manuscripts arranged in chronological order by Charles Fickus some five years ago. These sources are more fully described in the introduction to Volume 43. Material drawn from the bound volumes is identified in the margin of the present volume by name of series and number of document, while papers taken from the second source are located by a date reference only. The marginal references showing the date and source of each document are an innovation in the editing of the series, begun with this volume. As in other recent volumes of the Archives, much space has been saved and, we believe, no interest lost by the excision of formal headings and conclusions of letters. The preparation of the copy was begun and carried out by the late editor of the Archives of Maryland, Bernard Christian Steiner, from copies made by Miss Lucy Harwood Harrison and the publication of the volume has been effected by Dr. J. Hall Pleasants, with the assistance of Charles Fickus and Miss Carolina Virginia Davison.

The introduction is by Lawrence C. Wroth, Esq., and contains a bibliography of the writings of Dr. Steiner.

PEOPLE OF EARLY CHARLES COUNTY.

Contributed by Louis Dow Scisco.

The recent completion of a detailed index to the Society's photostat copy of Liber A of the Charles County court records makes it possible to give the following epitome of personal references in the old record book. This liber was originally a mercantile account book and it still retains six pages of the accounts entered in it by its first owner. Apparently he was some trader in Barbadoes, or possibly Bermuda, for the commodities in which he dealt are such as belong to the West Indies, rather than to Maryland. The last of these account entries was made in 1651. Seven years later the book was certainly in Maryland. Clerk George Thompson began the entry of Charles County records on June 1, 1658, and was yet the clerk when the final entries were made in December, 1662. With exception of some months in 1660 when Thomas Lomax was clerk the entire liber is in Thompson's handwriting. Both clerks used the old-time script, which is to-day unreadable to the average person. The people who are mentioned in the following list were for the most part actual residents of the county, but with them appear absentee land owners, transient river traders, visiting collectors and creditors, merchants of the adjacent county, and witnesses of papers executed outside the county.

Addames, Henry, resident at Portobacco, was owner of livestock, master of servants, quorum member of county court, feoffee in trust for the heirs of Governor Greene. Mary, his wife, was once subpoenaed for testimony.

Alkock, Thomas, is once mentioned in testimony as knowing of certain facts in dispute.

Allanson, Thomas, born about 1638, owned livestock, had land at Mattawoman Creek and on Potomac River, served on juries, witnessed papers, testified in court, and prepared for a voyage to England.

Allen: Thomas Allen owned livestock and in 1661 was deemed in danger of hanging for anti-proprietary politics. William Allen owned livestock, testified in court, and was served with subpoenas.

Anthonie: Simon Anthonie's estate, represented by the administrator, made suit, details not being stated.

Ashbrook: John Ashbrook, born about 1623, had some minor transactions and testified in court. His wife Rose, born about 1641, also was witness in court. Thomas Ashbrook, brother of John, was involved in debt suits.

Assitor, William, twice entered suit for debts claimed to be due to him.

Atwicks, Humphrey, perhaps had an inn, for the county court met at his place, which seems to have been at Wicomico River. He had a dozen minor debt suits and owned land. Elizabeth Atwicks, probably his wife, twice appeared as a court witness. Grace and Elizabeth, Jr., probably daughters, were donees of cattle.

Ayliffe, William, newly come from Virginia, was arrested for repeating false rumors but found not to be the originator of them.

Baker, Thomas, planter, largely involved in suits in 1658, was partner of William Empson and acquired livestock and servants. In 1661 he was made a member of the court. He adopted the orphan child of his deceased partner. Rousing enmity by charges of hog stealing he became the object of protracted and venomous attacks and countercharges.

Banks, Richard, apparently of St. Marys, owned a runaway servant who fled to Zachary Wade, son-in-law of Banks.

Baptista, John, free man from Barbary, was employed by Simon Oversee and then worked crops on shares. He sued for his share of the crop raised and later was sued by others for debts.

Barber, P———, signed as witness to the letter of attorney given by a ship captain to his local agent.

Barton: William Barton, Jr., owned livestock, acquired land at Wicomico River, and registered the births of his children Grace and William. He was brother-in-law of Thomas Smoote.

Batcheler, Francis, born about 1636, "brother" of Samuel Parker, was sheriff in 1661, owned livestock and sometimes acted as attorney for others.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES ON THE EMORY FAMILY OF MARYLAND.

December, 1927.

The ancestors of the present Emory and Amory families of America were the same and for many generations prior to 1700 were residents and land owners in the adjoining counties of Somerset and Devon and Gloucester in England. Early local records also indicate a branch of the family in Essex about 1634.

The present name of Emory-Amory was, so far as can be determined, originally Amauri, in France, about the 12th century, and during a period of about three hundred years the spelling of the name was changed to D'Amorie, Amorie, D'Amory and about 1600 became Amory and Emory.

Regardless of the several variations in spelling by certain generations of the family, which was characteristic of that period, the pronunciation of the name as Em-ory has remained the same since the very earliest times. In this connection it is interesting to note the following extract from a letter dated May 15, 1731, Bristol, England, to Thomas C. Amory of Boston, from a cousin, a Mrs. Julia O'Connor: "I have some papers in my hand wch cou'd give you light wch is your right in the county Kerry whither I am bound soon from this place (Bristol) where I have been about a fortnight and have been making inquiry of some of yr relations, the Emorys, for so they write their name, about yr estate in Somersetshire and they tell me it is in very good condition . . . . " Page 106-107 (The Descendants of Hugh Amory, 1605-1805, by Gertrude E. Meredith, London, 1901).

Among the early English ancestors of the family were Robert de Amory, Lord of Bucknell 1257, Giles D'Amorie (later Amorie and Amory about 1550), Giles and Thomas Amory 1579, John Amory 1606, Thomas 1667, and John Emory who died in Somersetshire in 1657. At this time local records also show that members of apparently the same family were living in Essex and possibly a branch under the name of Emery in Kent.

The fact that the different members of the family of Somerset, Gloucester and Essex were of the same stock and closely related is indicated in the similarity of their arms with crests in two instances being the same.

According to the English records and authorities as listed hereon, the following arms were granted:

(1) Giles D'Amorie (Amory), 1592; Arms: Barry nebuly of six argent and gules, over all upon a bend sable three bezants or. Crest: out of a mural coronet or, a talbots azure eared or. (College of Arms; Robson's British Herald, 1830; Royal Crest Book, MacLaren, London 1883.)

(2) Emory als Amory—Amery, Essex 1634; Arms: Barry nebuly of six argent and gules, in chief three annulets gules. Crest: out of a mural coronet a demi-horse, or maned or collared gu, studded or. Motto: "Fedelis et Suavis" (College of Arms; The Visitation of Essex 1634, Harleian Society, Vol. 13; Edmondson's Complete Heraldry, London 1870; Royal Crest Book, London 1883).

(3) Amory-Emory, Somerset; Arms: Barry nebuly of six argent and gu, a bent az. Crest: out of a mural coronet or, a talbots head az eared of the first. (College of Arms, London; Burke, Descendants of Hugh Amory by Meredith, London 1901.)

(4) Emory of Somersetshire, died 1657; Arms: Barry of six, gu or, in chief three cinquefoils or. Crest: A demi-unicorn rampant and erased, gu, hoofed and armed or crined sa. (Descendants of Hugh Amory by Meredith 1901; Elvens Book of Crests; College of Arms, London; Royal Crest Book.)

Family arms—Amory—Amorye—Amorie—in window of St. Peter's Church or Cathedral in Exon. Devon., Vol. I (Carew's Scroll of Arms, 1588).

The two American branches of the family were first represented in this country by the emigration of Arthur Emory to the province of Maryland in 1665, direct ancestor of the Maryland Emorys and by Thomas Amory, ancestor of the Boston Amorys, who settled first about 1690 in South Carolina, a few years later moving to Boston, Mass.

Arthur Emory arrived in the province of Maryland from Somersetshire, England, in 1660, with his wife, Mary and two children. He received from Lord Baltimore, in 1667, several direct formal grants of land on the Choptank, Wye and Chester Rivers, in Talbot and Queen Anne's Counties (Liber 12, p. 61, Anno. 1668; Date of grant June 30, 1668). He married his second wife, Ann Smith, prior to 1671, a daughter of Robert Smith. He married the third time, Catherine Vanderfort, a daughter of Michel Paul Vanderfort, whose family emigrated from Dermont, Flanders, and was granted large estates about 1640 on the site of the present city of Brooklyn, New York.

Arthur Emory died in 1699 and by his second wife left two sons, Arthur, Jr. and John, by his third wife, Catherine, he left two sons, William and a second Arthur, and also a daughter, Ann. Catherine afterwards married Edmund Prior, and died, according to her will, in 1749. (Wills, deeds, grants, etc., Land office records in Annapolis, Liber X, folio 391 and copies Talbot County wills in Ann Arundel County Courthouse, Liber H, folio 269.)

Arthur Emory Jr., born 1666, was one of the earliest members of the first county court of Queen Anne's, 1708. He had a pew in Wye church and was a vestryman in St. Paul's parish in 1704. He died September 22, 1747, and lies buried at Ingleside, originally known as "Emory's Fortune," which was one of the earliest colonial estates of the Emory family. It is located near the present village of Queenstown, his tombstone shows that he had two wives, Anne died Nov. 10, 1721, and Jockline (Jacqueline) Littilen. His will (Arthur 1747) probated November 25th, 1747, shows he left the following sons and daughters: John Jr., Arthur III, Thomas, Gideon and James and also four daughters.

Thomas Emory was the father of Thomas Lane Emory of Baltimore and the "Woodridge" Emory branch, now of Baltimore County, are descendants of Gideon Emory. Gideon married Mary Marsh, daughter of Thomas Marsh 1716. He died 1784 leaving sons, Wm. Wilson, Gideon Jr., John and James.

Francois Guidon (Gideon), Cambrai, France, Sous Lieutenant au 46 Reg. de Ligne, buried Ashburton Churchyard, Devon, French prisoner of war, 1815, age 22. Page 185, Devon Notes & Queries, Vol. 2, 1903.

Thomas Lane Emory of "Warrington" was the ancestor of the Richard Emory family of Baltimore county, represented at this time by Emory Warfield, Henry M. and S. Davies, sons of the late Henry M. Warfield and his wife Anna Emory, also Mary and Isabel Emory, sisters of Daniel Grant Emory, who married a daughter of Alexander Fulton and left a son, Thomas Emory and a daughter, Letlia.

Arthur 2nd, brother of Arthur, 1747, married Ann ——— and left the following sons: William, Edward and Giles.

John Emory Senior, son of Arthur 1st, 1699, was Lord Baltimore's Deputy Surveyor and Receiver of Quit Rents in 1726 and in 1750-60 was one of the surveyors who represented Maryland in the survey of the boundary line between Maryland and Pennsylvania on the Chesapeake and Delaware Peninsula, which was afterwards prolonged by Messrs. Mason and Dixon in the famous Mason and Dixon line. He was a pew holder in Wye church in 1723. He received through his elder brother, Arthur, 1747, by deed of gift from his father in 1683, "Bachelor's Chance." The other Emory colonial estates at this time were "Ingleside," "Warrington," "Coursey on Wye," "Saint Paul" and "Brampton."

John Emory married Ann ———. He died in 1763 and his will probated December 23, 1763, shows he left the following sons: Charles The Elder, John, Thomas, James, William and Charles The Younger, and daughters, Elizabeth and Ann.

John Emory of "Brampton" later "Poplar Grove," son of John Emory surveyor 1763, was born about 1710. He married Margaret Marsh, a sister of Mary and Sarah, wives of Gideon Emory 1st and John Emory Jr., 1765, and daughter of Thomas Marsh, 1712, who was a direct descendant of Augustine Hermann, the famous Bohemian noblemen, Lord of Bohemia Manor, in Cecil County, Maryland. He died intestate about 1740, leaving his widow, Margaret (who later married David Register) and two sons, John and Thomas and a daughter Sarah (married Thomas Falcomer).

John Emory married Juliana Hawkins (first wife) December 14, 1758 (St. Luke's Parish Church, Church Hill, Maryland), and about this time added to his own his step-father's name "Register" to distinguish him from several other John Emorys of his day.

The grandsons of Arthur Junior, 1747, and his brother John, 1763, were represented in the Revolutionary War as officers by the following: Gideon Emory, 2nd Lieut. 5th Maryland Regt., Dec. 10, 1776; Richard Emory, Captain 5th Maryland Regt., Dec. 10, 1776, Brevet Major Oct. 4, 1777, Thomas Lane Heitman, 1914).

He inherited from his father "Poplar Grove" in Queen Anne's County, originally known as "Brampton." In addition to "Brampton" the estate was at that time made up of "Conquest," "Corsica" and "Cintra" (Cintra, a town in Portugal, which up to about 1640 had been a dependency of Spain), the total consisting of approximately two thousand acres, covering all of that section known as Spaniards Neck at the junction of the Corsica and Chester rivers. "Poplar Grove" is one of the very few colonial estates in America which has been continuously owned by the same family and inherited from generation to generation up to the present time. It is the only one now remaining in possession of the Emorys in Maryland. The original section of the brick manor house was built about 1700 according to tradition and the formal terraced gardens of boxwood on the rear lawn are known to be the oldest gardens in this country.

Robert Emory, a son of John Register Emory by his first wife, married Frances Thomas, daughter of Tristram and Ann Thomas of Wye Neck. Their son was John Emory, later the noted bishop of the M. E. Church, founder of Emory University in Georgia, etc, Bishop Emory's son, Robert 2nd, was for many years president of Dickinson College. With the exception of Bishop Emory the Emorys from the earliest times have been associated with the history of the Anglican and afterwards the Protestant Episcopal Church. 1765. He died in 1790, his wife died June 4, 1802. Herewith you'll receive an Assortment for 150 Tons Barr Iron which if made in proportion to the Quantity given, of each size, will I Believe in general answer for this Market, tho as the American Iron is confin'd to this Port only & not to be sent more than ten miles from it either by Water or Land there is no judging for a Certainty without experience.

In this Assortment the Barrs need not be made to any particular Length, but great Care must be taken to make the Iron quite sound & to draw the Flatts of an exact Breadth & Thickness from End to End & to Close the Ends so as not to appear Ragged; The same Care must likewise be taken to draw the Squares very true and Even and of an Exact Size from End to End and not small in one part, and Gouty in another as all that has hitherto come for America has been which is a great detriment to the Sale of it—

I have likewise put down a Memorandm for 50 Tons Thick or Lyre Iron, there are a great many more sizes, but these are the most runing, and to give them a great many Sizes at first, will in my opinion be only puzzling of them; In making this Iron they must be extreamly exact both as to Breadth, Thickness & the Length of the Bars or will not answer the purpose It must likewise be quite sound & drawn Exactly true & They had better never attempt the makeing it, unless they Resolve to make it in every Respect agreeable to the direction given—

In relation to the Insurance I can say no more than I have already said and prove'd Except this that there was certainly a Protest made by the master & mate & Regularly but as Mr Carrington observes was lost in the office or Mislaid that it was made, the Master is still liveing to prove the same.

I find I shall be shuffled out of an adequate Satisfaction for my Loss and as I have thrown too much good money after the matter already it is not now worth my while to throw more. I find Insurers ready to take my money but very backward to do Justice in case of Loss tho I have often insure'd on that vessell it was the first Loss I claimed tho met with others do thereon as you will
